Minerva Schools at KGI (Keck Graduate Institute)

University Education beyond Academics

We'll reflect on these new demands by taking the example of Minerva Schools at KGI, a new university headquartered in San Francisco. Minerva builds around its rigorous core academics a series of programs that both enrich the academic experience and go well beyond it; for example, by taking students to San Francisco, Seoul, Hyderabad, Berlin, Buenos Aires, London, and Taipei, as well as by a systematic professional development program whereby students learn the realities of working in their fields of choice as well as getting a head start in building professional experience and network all throughout the four years of studies.
